

TITLES OF THE
ESSAYS AND REVIEWS
 CONTAINED IN THE SIXTEENTH VOLUME OF THE
MEDICAL REPOSITORY,
 OR THE FIRST OF THE NEW SERIES.

No. I, (61 from the beginning.)

- I. OBSERVATIONS and practical remarks on the nature, progress, and operation of the Venereal Disease. (continued from No. 59 and 60 of Vol. XV.) By Felix Pascalis, M. D. page 1
 - II. A case wherein the narcotic effects of Opium were surmounted by alkaline salts. By Samuel Akerly, Esq. hospital surgeon in the army of the United States. - - - 10
 - III. A fatal instance of Intestinal Obstruction, with a description of appearances on anatomical investigation after death. By Thomas Cock, M. D. Professor of Surgery, &c. in Queen's College, New-Jersey. - - - 14
 - IV. Observations and the result of experiments relating to the pharmaceutical preparations of quicksilver. By Richard Hazeltine, M. B. and fellow of the Massachusetts Medical Society. - 17
 - V. A case of Spina Bifida, cured by a surgical operation. By Henry H. Sherwood, of Rutland, Jefferson County, N. Y. - - 28
 - VI. Remarks on a case of Clubfoot, and on its successful mode of treatment. By Thomas D. Mitchell, M. D. of Philadelphia. 30
 - VII. An Examination of several points relative to the formation, structure, and decay of human teeth. By Horace H. Hayden, Esq. surgeon—dentist, &c. of Baltimore. - - - 33
- With reviews of an inquiry into the nature of Pulmonary Consumption, by G. L. Bayle, p. 48—And of the communications of the Medical Society of Connecticut, p. 58—And thirty pieces of Intelligence, upon improvements in chirurgical operations, medical literature, anatomical researches, botanical description, remedies for the stone, whooping cough, croup, cholera, catarrh, diarrhoea and hernia; with various other intelligence; medical practice, speculation, biography and instruction—from 63 to 104.

No. II. (62.)

- I. Observations and practical remarks on the Venereal disease. (continued from p. 10 of this volume.) By Felix Pascalis, M. D. 105

TITLES OF THE
ESSAYS AND REVIEWS
 CONTAINED IN THE SIXTEENTH VOLUME OF THE
MEDICAL REPOSITORY,
 OR THE FIRST OF THE NEW SERIES.

No. I, (61 from the beginning.)

- I. OBSERVATIONS and practical remarks on the nature, progress, and operation of the Venereal Disease. (continued from No. 59 and 60 of Vol. XV.) By Felix Pascalis, M. D. page 1
 - II. A case wherein the narcotic effects of Opium were surmounted by alkaline salts. By Samuel Akerly, Esq. hospital surgeon in the army of the United States. - - - 10
 - III. A fatal instance of Intestinal Obstruction, with a description of appearances on anatomical investigation after death. By Thomas Cock, M. D. Professor of Surgery, &c. in Queen's College, New-Jersey. - - - 14
 - IV. Observations and the result of experiments relating to the pharmaceutical preparations of quicksilver. By Richard Hazeltine, M. B. and fellow of the Massachusetts Medical Society. - 17
 - V. A case of Spina Bifida, cured by a surgical operation. By Henry H. Sherwood, of Rutland, Jefferson County, N. Y. - - 28
 - VI. Remarks on a case of Clubfoot, and on its successful mode of treatment. By Thomas D. Mitchell, M. D. of Philadelphia. 30
 - VII. An Examination of several points relative to the formation, structure, and decay of human teeth. By Horace H. Hayden, Esq. surgeon—dentist, &c. of Baltimore. - - - 33
- With reviews of an inquiry into the nature of Pulmonary Consumption, by G. L. Bayle, p. 48—And of the communications of the Medical Society of Connecticut, p. 58—And thirty pieces of Intelligence, upon improvements in chirurgical operations, medical literature, anatomical researches, botanical description, remedies for the stone, whooping cough, croup, cholera, catarrh, diarrhoea and hernia; with various other intelligence; medical practice, speculation, biography and instruction—from 63 to 104.

No. II. (62.)

- I. Observations and practical remarks on the Venereal disease. (continued from p. 10 of this volume.) By Felix Pascalis, M. D. 105

- II. An attempt to determine wherein consists the quality or principle of any body. By Thomas D. Mitchell, M. D. of Philadelphia. 122
- III. An examination of several points relative to the nature, growth, and decay of the Teeth. (continued from p. 47.) By H. H. Hayden, Esq. &c. 125
- IV. An inquiry into the use of the Capsulæ renales. By George Ferdinand Lehman, Esq. 137
- V. Observations on the mode of Sepulture in large cities, and the evils proceeding therefrom. By Dr. Isaac Ball, assistant to the board of Health in New-York. 139
- With reviews of Medical inquiries, and observations upon the diseases of the mind, by Benjamin Rush, p. 145—Of observations on the Hydrophobia, produced by the bite of a mad dog, or other rabid animal, by James Thacher, p. 156—Of the Morristown bill of Mortality kept for the Presbyterian and Baptist Congregations, by Jones and Cherry, p. 166—and of the Natural History of the Birds of the United States, by Alexander Wilson, Vol. V. and VI. p. 169—to which are added six valuable pieces of Medical and Surgical correspondence, p. 175 to 188—The natural history of the Guanaco of Chili (with a plate) and of the ice islands of the northern Atlantic ocean, p. 189–196—And divers other interesting matters on the diseases of the army, burns, scalds, patent medicines, mineral poisons, mineralogical inquiries, duration of life, &c. from 195 to 216.

No. III. (63)

- I. Observations on the fever of tropical climates, and on quicksilver as a remedy. By Dr. M. L. Haynie of St. Francisville, in Louisiana. 217
- II. Practical remarks on the Croup. By Dr. Moses Willard of Albany. 237
- III. Speculations on the functions of the suprarenal glands. By Thomas D. Mitchell, M. D. of Philadelphia. 241
- IV. Practical remarks on the cure of Jaundice. By John Mace, M. D. of Frederica, Del. 244
- V. Extract from an Essay on the Bilious Epidemic fever prevailing in the state of New-York. By Dr. Christopher C. Yates, of Albany. 247
- VI. An account of the Epidemic Pneumonia, which prevailed among the soldiers at Greenbush and the inhabitants of Albany, in the winter of 1812–13. By James Mann, hospital surgeon of the U. S. army. 255
- VII. Remarks on the prevailing Epidemic, read before the Medical Society of the state of New-York. By John Stearns, M. D. &c. 262
- With Reviews—Of an Essay on the organic diseases and lesions of the heart and great vessels, by J. N. Corvisart translated by J. Gates, p. 268—Of Elements of Chemical Philosophy, by H. Davy, L. L. D. p. 275—and of American Ornithology by A. Wilson, (continued from p. 174) Vol. V. and VI. p. 286—and upwards of twenty articles of intelligence upon the tremendous Earthquakes of 1811 and 12; a correct delineation of the huge testudo coriacea, mortification from frost, intestinal worms, merino sheep, army diseases, vaccination, yellow fever, police reports, state medical society, and other matters, 291 to 328.

No. IV. (64.)

- I. An account of the Epidemic pervading the country, and affecting the inhabitants and soldiers. By Silas Fuller, Esq. Surgeon to the 23d regiment United States infantry. - - - 330
- II. A case of Malignant Pneumonia, successfully treated. By Drs. E. S. and C. C. Blachley. - - - 334
- III. Essay on the Bilious Epidemic Fever. 2d edition. By Dr. Yates of Albany. - - - 338
- IV. Notice of various essays in the newspapers on the winter fever. 340
- V. Remarks on the Epidemic as it appeared among the seamen and marines at the City of Washington. By Henry Hunt, Esq. navy surgeon, &c. - - - 342
- VI. The history of the successful treatment of a violent case of epileptic or hysterical Convulsions. By Dr. Vine Utley, of New-London. - - - 344
- VII. Observations and practical remarks on the Spotted Fever, illustrated by dissection. By Dr. Job Wilson, of Salisbury, N. H. 351
- VIII. Description of a disease which appeared in the upper parts of Virginia, during the winter of 1812--13, and which resembled the spotted fever. By Robert Dunbar, M. D. of Winchester. 357
- IX. An Essay on Human Teeth. By Horace H. Hayden, Esq. (concluded from p. 137.) - - - 360
- With a Review of Barton's edition of Cullen's treatise on the Materia Medica, p. 363—And of the Memoirs of the Columbian Chemical Society of Philadelphia, Vol. I. p. 372—Medical and Surgical correspondence; of a fœtus formed in utero, without membranes; of a dreadful lacerated wound: of an idiopathic disease of the heart, with a dissection; of a case of ovarian dropsy cured, p. 383 to 395—Histories of the Sepias and Krakens of the ocean, 396—Of the meteor called the Palatine light, 408—and various other matters, botanical, mineralogical, anatomical and chemical, to the end.